

LETTER OF GRATITUDE

Dear Dr. Igor Korkin,

On behalf of the OFFZONE Organizing and Program Committee, we would like to express our sincere gratitude for your participation in the OFFZONE 2026 conference as a speaker and independent cybersecurity researcher.

This letter confirms your participation in the event with the following details:

Talk title: "Beyond Secure Desktop: Abusing and Hardening Windows Desktop Isolation"

Event: OFFZONE 2026—International Conference on Practical Cybersecurity (седьмая международная конференция по практической кибербезопасности OFFZONE 2026)

Date and place: August 20–21, 2026, GOELRO, Moscow, Russia

Participation format: Main Track speaker, technical presentation

Talk date: August 21, 2026

Your talk presented an in-depth practical study of Windows desktop isolation mechanisms and their security limitations, combining low-level operating system research with real-world experiments and demonstrations.

During the presentation, you demonstrated practical techniques for attacking isolated Windows desktops, analyzed the security properties of existing software solutions, and presented DesktopRanger—your approach to strengthening Windows desktop isolation and protecting sensitive user input against high-privilege threats.

We would especially like to acknowledge the practical and research-oriented nature of your work. The presentation brought together original security research, experimental analysis, operating system internals, and defensive engineering, providing the audience with both a deeper understanding of Windows security mechanisms and concrete approaches to strengthening them.

The talk attracted strong interest from the professional audience and contributed to the technical discussion around Windows internals, user input protection, isolation mechanisms, and practical cybersecurity research.

We highly appreciate the depth of your research, your commitment to sharing practical knowledge, and your contribution to the professional cybersecurity community.

We wish you continued success in your research, future publications, open-source projects, and further professional achievements.

Thank you for your valuable contribution to OFFZONE 2026.

Sincerely,

Evgeny Voloshin
